

Dear Don,

When we were making significant changes to our business model, we turned to our long-time customer representative Evangeline. Between Entel's resources and our new vendor, we found the solution that best fits our company with all the changes we have undertaken. We were guided to complete our project in a way that helped us transition in a positive way. Giving us and our staff the best results and experience. I would recommend Entel Systems, and Evangeline in any project as they have given us a vendor that has been there for us and will always back up their services and recommendations.
